

THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

A National Convention of the Republican party will meet at Chicago, Wednesday, the 23 day of June next, for the nomination of candidates to be supported for President and Vice President at the next election.
Republicans, and all who will co-operate with them in supporting the nominees of the party, are invited to choose two delegates from each Congressional District, four at large from each State, two from each Territory, and two from the District of Columbia, to represent them in the Convention.
J. D. CAMERON, Chairman.
THOMAS B. KEOGH, Secretary.

General Grant has got a boom in the South. The people receive him gladly.

According to the Bourbon press, it is the "sworn duty" of every Democratic official to steal all he can get.

The public debt is still on the decrease. During the month of December over four millions of dollars of it was paid.

Professor Watson, of the Washburn Observatory, Madison, says the year 1880 belongs to the eighteenth century, and not the nineteenth, as some papers have it.

Governor Garcelon, in an official capacity, is a creation of the Republican Senate of Maine. They made as bad a job as did the Almighty when he created Montgomery Blair.

Tilden has been so profoundly impressed with Garcelon's political transactions in Maine, that he has been unable to utter a word since the thirty-seven Republicans were counted out.

The only "new leaf" which Cyprian Tilden turned over at the beginning of the new year, was a determination (if possible) to get a set of ciphers for 1880 which the New York Tribune could not translate.

The State Journal announced the death of Hon. George W. Bliss, at Neosho, Missouri. Mr. Bliss formerly resided at Mineral Point, in this State, where he published the Tribune for several years. He was a member of the Assembly in 1870.

The President and Secretary Sherman are now convinced that public sentiment is so strongly opposed to any meddling with the currency, that Congress will not dare to repeal the legal tender quality of the greenback, nor make any provision for its retirement at present.

Professor David Swing, aside from being an eloquent minister and a man of sound culture, is generous in his nature. His congregation proposed to raise his salary from $7,000 to $10,000 a year, but he refused to accept it, and desired that the $3,000 be given to charitable purposes.

The "war cloud" in Maine appears to be increasing in size, if the newspaper reports are to be relied upon. The capital at Augusta, is locked and guarded by Fusion sentries. Garcelon has arms and ammunition at his command, and there are rumors that Garcelon's steel must be consumed at all hazards. While these things exist, the Republicans at Washington, and many of them in Maine, hope for peaceable solution of the problem. The Legislature will meet next Wednesday. The questions referred to the Supreme Court are really of little significance, and Garcelon claims that regardless of what the decision of the Court will be, the Fusionists will organize the Legislature and elect him Governor. It appears to be folly to hope that the Democrats will repent of their evil deeds and surrender what they have stolen.

There is a man in Minneapolis who calls himself Dr. H. S. Tanner, who claims that he can live at least thirty days without any kind of nourishment, and offers himself as the subject of a test. Dr. William A. Hammond, of New York, late Surgeon-General of the United States army, Tanner, it is his real name, declares he can live comfortably one month without a particle of food, and during all that time retain all the faculties of the mind. He says twice in his life he has made tests of himself, and once he went forty-two days without tasting food, and he offers for $1,000, to allow Dr. Hammond to try him concerning his power to resist hunger. It appears that about two years ago a Miss Mollie Fancher, of Brooklyn, attracted attention by her claim to be a "fasting girl," that is, she claimed to be able to live several weeks without food, and to read the contents of a sealed envelope. Dr. Hammond offered her $1,000 if she would fast thirty days under his supervision and would read the contents of a sealed envelope he might hold in his hand. The girl refused to do this, which satisfied Dr. Hammond that she was an impostor. He has no faith in Dr. Tanner's statements about fasting forty-two days, neither does he believe that he can live thirty days without food or water. Tanner publishes a challenge in the New York papers to the effect that he will bet $1,000 that he can live comfortably thirty days without nourishment of any kind. Dr. Hammond will accept this on condition only that Dr. Tanner will do the "fasting" under Dr. Hammond's supervision. He doesn't propose to have a reputation of Miss Fancher's tricks, and therefore will compel Dr. Tanner to submit to reasonable supervision. We presume this starvation business is to be done in the interest of science, at least it seems so, for should Dr. Tanner agree to Dr. Hammond's terms, a number of medical students in New York will go to Minneapolis to witness the effect on Dr. Tanner.

THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.

A call has been issued by Hon. J. D. Cameron, Chairman of the National Republican Committee, for a Convention to be held in Chicago on Wednesday, the 23 day of June, 1880. The representation of each State in the Convention will be the same as heretofore—being equal to twice the number of its Senators and Representatives in Congress, and two from each Territory. The call is made two weeks earlier than the one issued four years ago. The Convention of 1880 will be among the most important ever held by the Republican party. The political issues are of that peculiar character which will throw upon the Convention a responsibility not less important than that which fell upon the Convention held in Chicago twenty years ago, the 16th of next May, when it gave the world Abraham Lincoln—the wisest ruler of modern times. The scenes and incidents of that memorable gathering will naturally enter the minds of all these living who either witnessed the proceedings or carefully read the reports of the Convention. It is to be held in the same city. The great questions now before the people are hardly less momentous than they were then. There is as much need of a Republican President now as there was at that time. Though the nation has been baptized in blood since then, the South is as revolutionary in its spirit as ever, is as disloyal as ever, and the Northern Democrats now, as in 1860, think and act at the dictation of the South. These things will give the Republican Convention of 1880 a historic prominence not surpassed by any previous Convention.
As to who the nominee will be there can be no conjecture advanced. So far as that is concerned, the holding of the Convention in Chicago has no significance. It may be Bialne, and it is possible that it may be General Grant. That question can not be determined at this early day. It is safest to say that the Convention will be guided by wisdom and the best interests of the country in its choice of a candidate. It will be composed of the best elements of the party—of men who are not blind to the purposes of the South and of that class of Northern Democrats who defend the Maine steel. We have faith that the Republican Convention of 1880 will honor the country by its deliberations, and that it will give the people a candidate that will carry the country in order that this may be done, Wisconsin must see to it that it sends twenty of its best citizens and truest Republicans to that Convention.

AN OFFICE THAT GOES A-BEGGING.

It appears that President Hayes can't even give away the Russian Mission. He has been looking about for several months for a suitable man who wants to go abroad, and represent the United States at St. Petersburg, but as yet he has not found a man of sufficient wealth, capacity, and learning, to fill the bill. The President offered this important position to ex-Governor McCormick, of Arizona, but he had too much private business to look after to run off to Russia. The office was then tendered to General Barstide, of Rhode Island, and though he is "well fixed" financially, and hasn't much of a family to keep up in society, he refused the appointment because the salary was too small. The President then wanted ex-Governor Van Zandt, of the same State, to take the position, and in an unguarded moment he accepted the appointment. In a few days after, the prize had lost a good deal of its glitter—there was some honor in it, but not much money, and therefore Governor Van Zandt repented, and on the first day of the year he resolved to withdraw his acceptance.

WAITING.

For the Decision of the Maine Supreme Court.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Senator Edmunds, in conversation, expressed the opinion that the situation in Maine is grave, but he does not anticipate that there will be any rioting or disturbance of sufficient magnitude to call for Federal interference. As the stands now, it would be premature to express an opinion as to its legal aspects, more particularly as it is possible it may come before the Senate.

GENERAL GRANT.

The Party Entertained at Savannah Yesterday.—A Touching Scene.
SAVANNAH, Jan. 2.—This forenoon General Grant visited the Public Exchange, and received several hundred, or as many as could press and shake hands in an hour and a half. Delegations of colored men called, and John H. Dofos delivered a short address, assuring General Grant that, next to the memory of sainted Lincoln he was loved and honored by their race. At 10 o'clock the Mayor, Council, and prominent citizens escorted the distinguished guest to the United States revenue cutter, and a ride on the river was enjoyed past the wharves and old forts. Among the number were seven West Point graduates, several Mexican war veterans, and many ex-Confederate officers. After the return to the city the officials took the party for a drive around the city. This evening General and Mrs. Grant, General and Mrs. Sheridan, and

THE HAYDEN TRIAL.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 2.—The event of the day in the Hayden trial was the appearance in Court of old Benjamin Stevens, who has been suspected of knowing more about Mary Stannard's death than he has ever told. In fact, the defense has very plainly intimated the belief that he was the murderer. Stevens has been sick during the trial, and was brought into Court this afternoon in the arms of two men, wearing with the aid of twenty miles over rough roads. He was placed in an easy chair, and three physicians sat beside him, prepared to assist in his withdrawal if he exhibited any dangerous symptoms resulting from fatigue or excitement. Stevens told a strong story, in which he denied any improper relations with the girls of the Stannard family, and said that he had been in the house of the murder at the time of the murder, and was at home the remainder of the day. It is a singular coincidence however, that no members of his family were home that afternoon who can prove that he stayed there instead of going by sleigh to his home in New Haven, and committing the murder, as intimated by the defense. Hayden is in the same trouble; he cannot account for his whereabouts at the hour of the murder other than by his own uncorroborated statement, and unfortunately for him, the State has shown a motive for him to do the deed, while the defense is unable to show any for Stevens. The latter yesterday contradicted Hayden in some essential particulars, and as to the event of his visit to the home of the murdered girl on the forenoon of the day of the tragedy, Stevens was also there, and denies that he (Stevens) was at the front fence with Mary Stannard while Hayden's carriage was there.

THE SENSATION.

WASHINGTON, January 2.—The girl who shot Senator Morgan's son was bailed out to-day by Belva Lockwood, the female lawyer, and that will probably be the last of the case, as young Morgan does not care to prosecute her. He will wait, however, until his father returns from Alabama before deciding. The Rev. J. Vaughn Lewis, rector of St. John's Episcopal Parish, the swell church here, vouches for the young lady, and says that he has investigated the case, and believes her to be the victim of a remarkable case of betrayed confidence. He says she is well-bred, intelligent, and he never saw the slightest impropriety in her conduct before. Judge Shellbarger, who is her attorney in the seduction suit against young Morgan, says she has a very strong case.

MANGLING.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 2.—At Oconomowoc early this morning, a brakeman named Charles Carpenter, aged 22 years, whose home is at Cedar Falls, Ia., was run over and horribly mangled by freight train No. 5, on the Milwaukee & St. Paul line. He was on the top of a forward car, and as the train was getting well under motion in pulling out he slipped down between two cars was run over by the entire train. The lower portion of his body and his legs were so badly cut that it was apparent at a glance that he could not live any great length of time. He was placed in a hotel and given all the relief possible before death put an end to his sufferings. Carpenter was a very popular and industrious young man.

THE GOLDEN SILENCE.

From Baldwin's Monthly.
What though I sing no other song?
What though I speak no other word?
Is silence shame? Is silence wrong?
At least one song of mine was heard:

One echo from the mountain air,
One ocean murmur, glad and free—
One sign that nothing grand or true
In all this world was lost to me.

I will not wake the sleeping lyre:
I will not strain the chords of thought;
The sweetest fruit of all desire
Comes in its own way, and comes unsought.

Though all the birds of earth were dead,
And all their music passed away,
What Nature wishes should be said
She'll find the rightful voice to say!

Her heart is in the shimmering leaf,
The drifting cloud, the lonely sky;
And all we know of bliss or grief
She speaks, in forms that cannot die.

The mountain peaks that shine afar,
The silent stars, the pathless sea,
Are living signs of all we are,
And types of all we hope to be.

Tilden's Friends Determined to Stick by the Bar!

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The story which comes from New York and which is credited here, to the effect that Mr. Tilden has been claiming of late to politicians from various parts of the country that he failed to be made President through the timidity of the Democrats in Congress, is exciting very severe comments, and is certain to cause a bitter feeling.

There are a number of those who know all the inside secrets here on the Democratic side during the Electoral count, who have never ceased to declare that it was Mr. Tilden's own cowardice that he was not declared President and inaugurated. If he had been willing to give assurance that he would be sworn in in New York, if it was found impracticable to inaugurate him in Washington, these gentlemen say he would have been counted in beyond question. There is also no occasion here among Democrats, caused by reports brought by a few members who have returned from a visit to New York, to the effect that Tilden and his friends have decided to make the strongest and most persistent fight for his nomination of which they are capable. It is understood that he even goes so far as to intimate that no other Democrat shall carry New York.

She speaks, in forms that cannot die.

The mountain peaks that shine afar,
The silent stars, the pathless sea,
Are living signs of all we are,
And types of all we hope to be.

Tilden's Friends Determined to Stick by the Bar!

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The story which comes from New York and which is credited here, to the effect that Mr. Tilden has been claiming of late to politicians from various parts of the country that he failed to be made President through the timidity of the Democrats in Congress, is exciting very severe comments, and is certain to cause a bitter feeling.

There are a number of those who know all the inside secrets here on the Democratic side during the Electoral count, who have never ceased to declare that it was Mr. Tilden's own cowardice that he was not declared President and inaugurated. If he had been willing to give assurance that he would be sworn in in New York, if it was found impracticable to inaugurate him in Washington, these gentlemen say he would have been counted in beyond question. There is also no occasion here among Democrats, caused by reports brought by a few members who have returned from a visit to New York, to the effect that Tilden and his friends have decided to make the strongest and most persistent fight for his

THE GAZETTE.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 3, 1890.
CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEFINGS.

—The New Year reigns.
—Mrs. Hunt's school will reopen on the 12th inst.

—Climb into your pew to-morrow, and start the year right.

—Rev. Mr. Stowe holds quarterly meeting services in this city to-morrow.

—Mrs. O. J. Dearborn is still ill, though her condition is not deemed alarming.

—Those who commenced keeping a diary last Thursday begin to weaken already.

—O. H. Fethers has so far recovered as to be able to ride out a little, when it is pleasant.

—Lost yesterday, a light blue silk handkerchief, for which an owner can be found at the Gazette counting room.

—People going to Madison Monday, will find Nightham's hotel in the Journal Office block the place to stop.

—Will Spang writes back from La Crosse that he has reached the Black River country, and gone to work again in the lumber camps.

—The arguments in the Henry case, from Clinton, have been put off from time to time until it is getting to be chronic. The next time fixed for hearing them is Monday next.

—Ashley, the singer, when last heard from was giving concerts in some of the towns near Cincinnati. He is assisted by his wife who is a pianist, and whose home is in Beloit. There are two or three others in the troupe.

—Miss Mary Barlow and Miss Lillie Stannis, of Oconto, have been visiting friends here for a few days, having stopped over on their way homeward from Chicago, where they have been visiting. They return to Oconto this evening.

—O. B. Conrad and George Shurtliff have been building an ice house, and expected to begin now to put in next summer's supply for the former's grocery store and the latter's restaurant. The weather isn't exactly right for this kind of business.

—Last evening a crowd of boys in the Fourth ward got all the sleds they could bag or borrow, besides all they owned, and strung them along tandem fashion, and got a horse to draw the long procession through the streets. It was fun for the boys, and "dead loads of fun" for the horse.

—Charles Voss, who claims Michigan as his home, was before Justice Wickham yesterday, charged with an assault upon young Moran in the town of Janesville. The fuss occurred while they were stripping tobacco together, and was not of a very serious nature. Voss was found guilty, and being unable to pay the fine and costs, was sent to jail for ten days.

—The C. M. & St. Paul Railway will run a special train to Madison, Monday, January 5th, leaving here at 7 a. m., sharp, carrying the "Oshkosh," "Sheboygan," and "Janesville Guards." Two other coaches will be provided, and persons desiring to accompany the Guards, will find tickets on sale at the C. M. & St. Paul ticket office. Fare, $1.95 to Madison and return, good to return Tuesday.

—Another medical student has begun to realize the stern realities of life. While going home the other day a neighbor's dog flew at him and the two had a wrestle. The dog had just about got ready to own up whipped, when his owner put in an appearance, and another wrangle followed between the men, the dog keeping score. No blood. The dog was mad, and so were the other participants, but all have since recovered.

—It's only an old story retold. One of Janesville's old residents stepped into a main street grocery on Tuesday and asked the price of pigeons. He wanted a pot-pie, but thought the price asked was a little too high—"fifteen cents a pair." He finally offered fifty cents for half a dozen of the birds, and the offer being accepted walked off delighted at his economy. How much did he save? Here's a sum for the school boys to fill up vacation with.

TRAVELERS, stop at the Astor Hotel, NEW YORK.

OFF FOR MADISON.

On Monday the Bower City Band and Janesville Guards will go to Madison to take part in the ceremonies attending the inauguration of Governor. The train on which they will go will start from here at 7 o'clock Monday morning. The Guards meet to-night for drill and every member who expects to go is expected to be present without fail.

AN ICE SALE.

Hogboom & Atwood have bought out the three ice houses of John Watson and John Fitzgerald, and will carry on the business in connection with their other trade, so that they are now in shape to warm folk up in winter and cool them down in summer. The ice houses have been all filled, the amount reaching about 6,000 tons, which would make quite a respectable sized iceberg if it was sent floating down Rock river in a lump. The ice business has fallen into good hands, and will be carried on successfully no doubt.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY FRANKLIN & EVERSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last evening stood at 32 degrees above zero; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 33 degrees above; at 7 o'clock p. m. at 33 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 45 degrees above. Rain all day.

The indications to-day are, for the upper lake region, upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys, warmer south and east winds, falling barometer, increasing cloudiness, possibly followed by occasional light local rains in the northern portions.

FERRY'S SEEDS.

We are in receipt of the Seed Annual issued by D. M. Ferry & Co., of Detroit, Michigan. It is a beautiful book, and gives a great amount of valuable information concerning all varieties of garden and flower seeds. It is sent free to all who apply for it, and all who contemplate making purchases should send for it. The great seed house of D. M. Ferry & Co., has grown up from small beginnings, and now probably have the largest seed store in the world. It is 300 by 130 feet, four stories high, besides having a large basement. The area of the floors is nearly five acres. The house does an immense business, and grows on their own farms a large proportion of all the seeds they sell.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WOODRUFF.

The funeral of Mrs. H. S. Woodruff occurred this forenoon. A very large number of sympathizing friends gathered at the family residence on Jackson street, though a drenching rain was falling, and it was hazardous for those in enfeebled health to expose themselves to the inclemency of the weather. Rev. T. P. Sawin conducted the services, and Rev. F. L. Chapell offered prayer. The services were very touching, and the words of consolation from Mr. Sawin were tender and appropriate to the sad occasion. The singers, Mrs. H. A. Smith, Mrs. C. B. Conrad, Mr. John Wingate, and Mr. D. D. Bennett rendered two sympathetic selections. After the friends had taken their leave of the remains the casket was taken to Oakhill cemetery, where the remains were interred. J. C. Echlin, Hiram Merrill, E. L. Dimock, J. T. Wright, J. B. Casaday and J. W. Nash served as pall bearers, and a large number of friends accompanying the bereaved ones to the last resting place of the departed.

It is seldom that one is called from our midst, who is so generally mourned as Mrs. Woodruff. Her many good qualities are best known to her friends, but even outside of these circles, her memory will long linger here.

THE NEXT SHOW.

Next Tuesday evening there is to be an entertainment at the Opera house by the Rentz-Santley troupe. The San Francisco Alta says:

A novelty in the way of minstrelsy which includes a ladies as the principal performers, was presented at this house Saturday evening, to a very large audience. The first part of the entertainment is by Rentz's Minstrels, after which Mabel Santley's London Baroque Troupe gave a lively entertainment, concluding with the burlesque Pinafore. The minstrel troupe includes several fine voices and a good deal of comic ability. The variety acts are full of dash and cleverness, and in every respect unobjectionable.

DEFACING THE TOMBSTONES.

Last March there was an outrageous defacement of tombstones in the cemetery at Evansville, the act being committed by some unknown miscreants. Nearly one hundred stones were mutilated in different ways, as though some one had gone through the cemetery with a sledge. Rewards were offered for the detection of the perpetrators of the outrage, and the money offered now amounts to about $700. George Potter, the railroad agent there, brother of C. A. Potter, of this city, thinks he has solved at least a part of the mystery, and yesterday caused the arrest of George Craig, the papers being served by Constable Taylor, who brought the prisoner to this city, and lodged him in jail. Craig is a marble cutter, whose wife's family live in Magnolia. He sought employment in Prichard's marble shop in Evansville last March, and has been there ever since. He denies the charge in every particular, and claims to be able to prove that he was not in or about Evansville at the time the outrage was committed. He was arraigned before Justice Brooks this morning, and pleaded not guilty. Bail was fixed at $100, but he was not able to furnish it. The trial will take place next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

ONLY AN IDLE FANCY.

'Twas only an idle fancy.

They said, and they laughed, forsooth,
At the foolish and fond delusion,
The dream of a loveless youth;
The sweetest of Summer days.

When all the world was in tune,
Declared but a fevered frenzy,
From which I'd recover soon.

We met, and the skies exulted;
We spoke, and our hearts beat still,
As if we were only actors
That met at another's will;

And all through the Summer season,
With moonlight, flowers, and song,
We threaded our lives together
And wove our affection strong.

Velvet, and silk and satin,
Jewels, and gold and silver,
Bogles, truels, and bundles,
Nothing of these was there;

Simple and plain her dress was,
And all that had won my fancy,
Shone out of her lovely face.

The soul may carelessly wander,
Untouched by the hand of fate,
Until it has met its mate:

Then shall its soaring pinions
Be clipped, by the touch of fate,
And the heart of the mighty eagle
Be one with the cooling dove.

'Twas only an idle fancy,
That might linger the season through:
Only a young man's folly.

They said—but they spoke not true:
For time is the test of honor,
Though youth is fickle and gay,
And the heart of the mighty eagle
Is the joy of my life to-day!
